Running a pool doesn't have to be difficult. We're here to help you understand how to run your new system.

Efficiency – Pools may be expensive to build, but that doesn't mean they need to be expensive to run. We'll teach you how to reduce the on-going expenditures associated with your system. Smart decisions early on regarding your equipment, chemical usage, personnel training and utility consumption can save big in the long run. We'll show you how.

Effectiveness – Great pool water is heated, treated and chemically balanced – and it's easy to recognize. Bad pool water... well that's also easy to spot. We'll make sure you understand the systems that we've installed that guarantee your patrons (and your health department) will love your pool.

Risk Management – As an owner or an operator, you need a keen set of eyes, well-trained to identify risks before they become injuries ... or liabilities. With decades of aquatic risk management experience, we'll teach you what to look for in the water, on the deck and in your work areas.

Compliance – Commercial swimming pool operators are expected to be well-versed in the latest codes, standards and regulations associated with their facility. In their role they answer to a multitude of national, state and local regulatory bodies. Each has the ability to impose fines and sanctions, they can even take away your permit to operate. We'll start you off on the right foot and teach you to self-audit your systems to make sure you're always meeting the industry best-practices.

"I highly recommend working the Aquatic Council on all your swimming pool needs. They have worked with our company many years, and I cannot imagine working with anyone else. As a GM that has personally taken their programs, I can tell you from experience that they are extremely thorough in their teaching, and take whatever time needed to make sure their clients understand every detail of what is being taught. I feel confident knowing that my pool operators were trained by the best, and I know my park will benefit from what they've learned from the Aquatic Council."

TIM AUERHAHN

Tim has served in various operations, education, risk-management and leadership capacities with nationally recognized brands, athletic facilities and universities. Pairing real world experiences with outstanding curriculum, Tim's trainings are among the highest reviewed in the industry.

As Chair of the Aquatic Council, Tim Auerhahn takes a personal lead on every project.

Tim is a six-time recipient of the Distinguished Instructor Award issued by the World Aquatic Health Conference. Since 2015 he has trained more operators worldwide than any other instructor. As an alumnus of The Ohio State University (B.S. Sports Management, M.S. Strategic Leadership),

"Tim has always been an incredible resource surrounding all things aquatics. From trainings, policy issues, and facility management - we consider Tim a partner in helping us maintain the best learn-to-swim program in the country."
